

As part of the ESRC Festival of Social Science, the University of Lincoln is staging a public debate

Interpreting Rurality

The motion will be: This house believes that given current trends, the death of the rural is inevitable

The debate will feature Professor Nigel Curry, Professor Peter Somerville, Professor John Shepherd, Dr Keith Halfacree and Dr Gary Bosworth along with other authors of a new book *Interpreting Rurality; Multi-disciplinary approaches**. Audience contributions will also be encouraged.

Both before and after the debate, there will be refreshments and opportunities for guests to participate in an experiment about perceptions of rurality.

5th November | 6pm | The Business & Law Building

The event is free of charge but to reserve a place please email Susan at: smarango@lincoln.ac.uk

*Details of the forthcoming publication are available on Routledge's website: <http://www.routledge.com/books/details/9780415696722/>

UNIVERSITY OF
LINCOLN